Rationale

The school recognises the entitlement of all learners to receive Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (RSHE), which is current, meaningful, and relevant. The school embeds a respect for diversity and encourages a sense of compassion and understanding of others. We recognise and respect that members of the school community are diverse in culture, religious values, and sexual orientation. We also recognise that modern technology brings with it issues of safeguarding and we are committed to addressing online safety in its various forms.

We will ensure that Relationships and Sex Education is accessible for all learners. Delivery and resources will be differentiated and personalised to meet the needs of all young people with SEND, in preparation for adulthood and in line with the SEND Code of Practice (2014). Teaching will be sensitive, age-appropriate, developmentally appropriate and delivered with reference to the law.

Statutory Guidance and Legislation

The Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019, made under sections 34 and 35 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017, make relationships and sex education (RSE) compulsory for all learners receiving secondary education. Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education (PSHE Education) continues to be compulsory in independent schools; we include RSE within our whole-school PSHE programme, and Health Education as part of PSHE.

This RSE policy is also informed by the following legal guidance:

- Equality Act 2010
- Keeping Children Safe in Education 2025

Definition

The Sex Education Forum defines relationships and sex education (RSE) as learning about the emotional, social, and physical aspects of growing up, relationships, sex, human sexuality, and sexual health. It should equip children and young people with the information, skills, and positive values to have safe, fulfilling relationships, to enjoy their sexuality and to take responsibility for their sexual health and well-being.

Whilst knowledge of biology and the reproductive system is important, RSE is concerned with attitudes and values, personal and social skills, respect for self and others, family, stable loving relationships, feelings, gender roles and decision-making.

RSE involves a combination of sharing information and exploring issues and values.

RSE is not about the promotion of sexual activity.

Aims

RSE, as part of the PSHE education curriculum, is vital to the development of the young people in our school. The planned programmes are designed to help them deal with the difficult moral, social, and health-related issues that arise in their lives and in society. They also help them to develop the knowledge, skills and understanding they need to live confident, healthy, independent lives as individuals, parents, workers, and members of society. Effective RSE is a key component in our approach to safeguarding our learners through the curriculum. The secondary age group is considered vulnerable with respect to the specific safeguarding issues of child exploitation (CCE and CSE) and child on child abuse, including teenage domestic violence.

Effective RSE can make a significant contribution to the development of the personal skills needed by learners if they are to establish and maintain relationships. It also enables young people to make responsible and informed decisions about their health and wellbeing.

Specifically, our RSE curriculum:

- Provides a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place.
- Prepares learners for puberty and gives them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene.
- Helps young people develop feelings of self-respect, confidence, and empathy.
- Creates a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships.
- Teaches and confirms the correct vocabulary for young people to describe themselves and their bodies.

Policy Development

This policy will continually be developed in consultation with staff, young people, and parents.

The consultation and policy development process involves the following steps:

1. Review – the staff working group pulls together all relevant information including relevant national and local guidance.
2. Staff consultation – all school staff are given the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations.
3. Parents consultation – parents are invited to attend a meeting about the policy and provide feedback through various mechanisms.
4. Young people consultation – an enquiry into what exactly young people want from their RSE.
5. Ratification – once amendments are made, the policy is shared with directors and ratified.

Consultation with young people takes place both formally and informally. Formally, learners will be consulted through learner voice, with tutors. Informally, there is an open dialogue between staff and learners. There is also the use of plenary activities to evaluate lessons.

The Law

It is important to know what the law says about sex, relationships, and young people, as well as broader safeguarding issues. This includes a range of important facts and the rules regarding sharing personal information, pictures, videos, and other material using technology. This will help young people to know what is right and wrong in law, but it can also provide a good foundation of knowledge for deeper discussion about all types of relationships. There are also many different legal provisions whose purpose is to protect young people, and which ensure young people take responsibility for their actions.

Young people should be made aware of the relevant legal provisions when relevant topics are being taught, including for example:

- marriage
- consent, including the age of consent.
- violence against women and girls
- online behaviours including image and information sharing (including 'sexting,' youth-produced sexual imagery, nudes, etc.)
- pornography
- sexuality
- gender identity
- substance misuse
- violence and exploitation by gangs
- extremism and radicalisation
- criminal exploitation (for example, through gang involvement or 'county lines' drugs operations)

Inclusion and Equality

Our RSE programmes recognise that young people will bring prior learning and real-life experiences to their learning. Our curriculum respects and builds on these, providing programmes that reflect both the universal and unique needs of our learners. In this way, the programmes recognise and respect learners' different abilities, levels of maturity and personal circumstances; for example, their own sexual orientation, gender identity, faith, or culture (which may, depending on their age and maturity, not be something they have yet considered or may be emerging) or the sexual orientation, gender identity, faith or culture of their immediate family, close friends, and wider community.

The Equality Act 2010 covers the way the curriculum is delivered, as schools and other education providers must ensure that issues are taught in a way that does not subject learners to discrimination. This includes protection for all the nine characteristics stated in the Act. Schools have a duty under the Equality Act to ensure that teaching is accessible to all children and young people, including those who are lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) and any other groups, however they choose to identify. Inclusive RSE will foster good relations between learners, tackle all types of prejudice – including homophobia – and promote understanding and respect. The Department for Education has produced advice on The Equality Act 2010 and schools (DfE 2014b).

Partnerships with Parents

The school recognises that parents are crucial to the success of the RSE programme and is committed to providing both information about what is provided and accessible opportunities to comment on policy and practice.

Parents will retain the right to withdraw their child from sex education at the school. However, young people can opt into sex education from three terms before their 16th birthday and at that point, parents/ will not have the option to withdraw their children from relationships education or health education. Schools are advised to keep a record of the process of dialogue with parents relating to requests to withdraw from sex education. If you wish to withdraw your child from sex education, please speak to the school principal.

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing using a form available for this purpose and available from the office. A copy of withdrawal requests will be placed in the learner's educational record. The school principal will discuss the request with parents and take appropriate action.

Alternative, purposeful, and appropriate work will be given to learners who are withdrawn from sex education.

Confidentiality, Safeguarding and Child Protection

Everyone involved in RSE is clear about the boundaries of their legal and professional roles and responsibilities. Teachers will discuss confidentiality with learners through the development of a group agreement at the start of lessons, making it clear that staff cannot offer unconditional confidentiality and will report concerns or suspicions to the Designated Safeguarding Lead as outlined in the safeguarding and child protection policy.

Delivery of the RSE Curriculum

To ensure both progression and coverage of the statutory curriculum, we use the PSHE Association's Education Planning Framework for Pupils with SEND. Our programmes recognise that young people will bring prior learning and real-life experiences to their learning. We respect and build on these, providing programmes that reflect both the universal and unique needs of our learners.

Controversial topics will be covered with sensitivity and respect for all viewpoints. The programmes are not aimed at telling what is right and wrong but to consider different perspectives and provide young people with the information to make their own decisions.

At school, we teach young people in mixed-age classes, divided into key stage 3 (years 7-9) and key stage 4 (years 10-11). We have amalgamated the frameworks into a rolling 3-year programme for Key Stage 3 and a 2-year programme for Key Stage 4. Please see mapping document (appendix 1).

Some young people at the school may either be sexually experimental or know friends who are. They will be interested to know what they should expect of a partner and how to talk to them. They will need more information on contraception, sexual health and how to access services. They will want to know about different types of relationships. They may want to know about how to cope with strong feelings and how to cope with the pressures to have sex. They will start to ask questions about parenthood and may like to know how they can talk to a trusted adult. They will also be interested in other influences on sexual decision-making such as the law, different cultures and religious beliefs, pornography, the media and the effects of drugs and alcohol.

Young people at KS4 will need more information on sexual risk, pregnancy, sexual health, fertility, and infertility. They may be keen to discuss gender stereotyping, violence, exploitation, the law, and discrimination. Learning about the relationship between self-esteem and body image and how to challenge negative messages from peers, the media and society is also important.

RSE will be taught primarily within PSHE, but also in Science, ICT, People, and the Community (RE) and Talkabout. Lessons may be taught as part of a discrete unit, or they may be embedded within other subjects. The school will offer a flexible approach to delivery where a particular need or concern is identified.

Teaching learners about LGBT will be at the point where the school considers it age and developmentally appropriate.

Young people also have regular access, throughout the academic year, to workshops and RSE lessons taught by external organisations promoting positive sexual health and relationships.

Young people will also be signposted to appropriate support and services when required. This may include counselling services, local sexual health services and healthcare professionals.

How We Assess, Record and Report Learners' Learning and Progress

We will ensure that assessment opportunities are built into the RSE programmes and that RSE is assessed on skills and attributes as well as knowledge. Regular opportunities will be provided to enable learners to reflect on their work and learning, for example, in-class question and answer, discussion, group work, peer assessment, self-assessment and marking.

Learner progress will be tracked by the PSHE teacher and will link with the schools' overall learner tracking, including individual needs.

We will ensure that parents and other stakeholders are provided with feedback and information about learners' learning in RSE.

The curriculum itself will be quality-assured in a variety of ways including learning walks, drop-ins, lesson observations, planning, and work scrutiny. This will be carried out as part of the schools' ongoing quality assessment cycle by the SLT.

Roles and Responsibilities

Learners

Young people are expected to participate in RSE and treat others with respect and sensitivity. Alternative work, which focuses on values and self-esteem will be given to those who are withdrawn from RSE.

Staff delivering RSE are responsible for:

- Planning the curriculum using the school's proformas.
- Delivering RSE in a sensitive way.
- Differentiating and personalising delivery to the needs of the individual.
- Modelling positive attitudes to Relationships and Sex Education.
- Monitoring and tracking progress.
- Responding to the needs of individual young people and issues as they arise.
- Responding appropriately to young people whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the sex education components of RSE.

- Take responsibility to attend regular CPD to ensure they are confident and have up to date knowledge and understanding.

The Principal:

The principal is responsible for ensuring that RSE is fully covered and that it is taught consistently well. The principal is responsible for managing requests to withdraw learners from the non-statutory/non-science components of RSE. The principal and RSE Lead will provide regular access to training and development to ensure that staff are confident in their subject knowledge and delivery. The principal is responsible for the monitoring and evaluation of the RSE programmes.

Monitoring and Evaluation

The principal will lead the evaluation by encouraging learners to participate in completion of surveys and focus group discussions. Relationships and Sex Education can be evaluated by monitoring the decline in recorded instances of homophobic bullying, bullying, use of derogatory language, including genderised or sexual comments.
